OVERVIEW INSIGHT FORESIGHT

An enlightening invention in every respect: For over 4,000 years, glass construction has been proving itself as a stylistic and design tool that greatly increases the value of a building. The history of Lenderoth is comparatively short – only 150 years. But during this time, our enthusiasm for glass and metal construction projects – from the planning to the implementation to the service – has grown continually with the challenges we have faced. It is always a pleasure for us to meet and exceed the wishes and requirements of architects, builders, and residents with solutions for windows and doors – down to the very last detail. In the following, you will find some examples and insights.

We hope to pique your interest in our products and services and look forward to some good conversations with you.

With heartfelt regards,

Christophe Lenderoth

FRAMELESS SLIDING WINDOWS

FRAMELESS SLIDING WINDOWS: THE NEW OPENNESS

Whether mansion or residential house, simply functional or beautifully representative: when constructing or redesigning a building, it is always also a matter of overcoming architectural boundaries. So that space becomes more spatial experience and life becomes more quality of life. One of the most difficult boundaries is certainly the one between inside and outside.

And we overcome these boundaries with a unique product range: frameless sliding windows that lead from the inside to the outside without any thresholds or weight and thus convey a feeling of limitless openness. We have the right variant for every room situation and every customer requirement: Sliding elements that can be room-high, curved, arched, inclined, or even electronically operated. But in every case, they are a clear gain in light, exclusivity, and comfort.

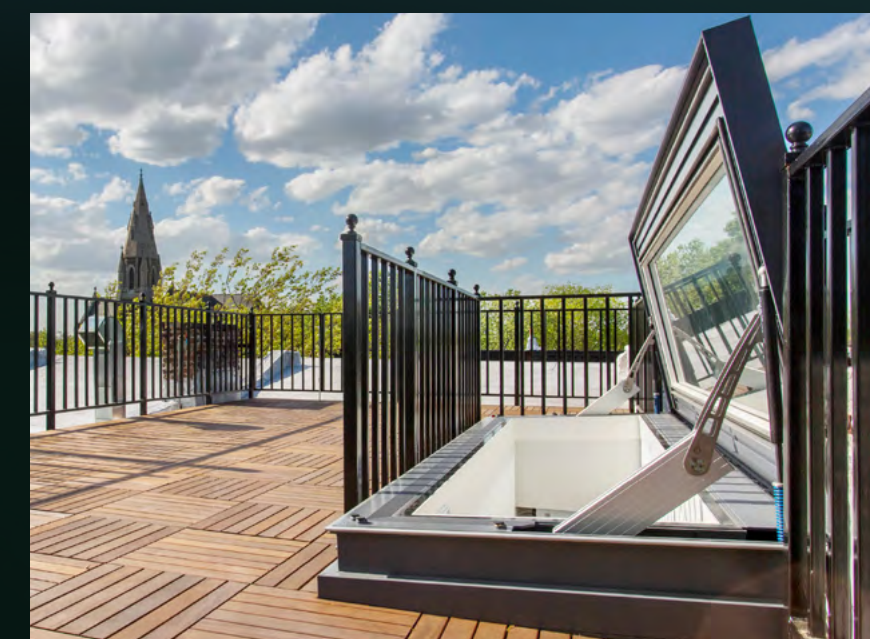

ARCHITECTURAL SKYLIGHTS

Although they are at the top, they rarely get attention. Roofs can do a lot more for the quality of living than just protect against rain. For us, this is reason enough to deal intensively with the topic of architectural skylights – with results at the highest level of technology and design. The principle: the reduced frames and the resulting increased proportion of glass in the architectural skylights and roof vents allow considerably more natural light and fresh air into the home and bring it to a whole new level – climatically, visually, and architecturally. Whether we use proven standard products or customised high-tech solutions, our elegant accesses to the roof and the roof terrace or the automatic sliding roof designs highlight every property – by adding style, structural finesse, and living space.

FOLDING GLASS WALLS

FOLDING GLASS WALLS: NEW PERSPECTIVES

First impressions count. Making this moment as intense and appealing as possible is one of the core tasks of architecture – and one of the many advantages of our folding glass walls. The idea, like many good ideas, is simple: the glass surface can be folded into a narrow wing package and thus, unlike conventional sliding doors, disappears almost completely from the field of vision. The heart of the folding glass door is a multi-functional insulating web that enables particularly slim profiles – even with large sashes and high sash weights. In addition, the bar ensures perfect insulation. The result is an almost completely unobstructed view, a harmonious connection between the interior and exterior, and an impression that never fails to delight.

GLASS STAIRS

GLASS STAIRS THE BEST WAY TO ASCEND

Stairs are used not only to connect floors and provide access to buildings. They also have a considerable aesthetic importance. A staircase often gives a property its uniqueness. Our all-glass staircases are made for just that. Here, it is precisely the minimalist look that emphasises its exclusivity. The transparent steps, which are anchored almost invisibly, give a real feeling of glamour when ascending or descending. This pleasant floating state is secured by extra tempered and specially treated glass, which ensures absolute stability and non-slip steps. Whether satin-finished, subtly coloured, or LED-lit, our all-glass staircases create a wonderfully special sense of space.

OUR SERVICE: EXPERTISE ON A LARGE SCALE

As passionate glass and metal workers, craftsmanship means one thing above all else: teamwork. We combine this with supporting and advising our clients in every phase of a project – from the initial enquiry to the successful completion of a project (and long beyond). For our clients, this commitment offers the opportunity to enter new territory in terms of thinking and construction, to develop alternatives, to discover ideas, and to implement them. We support these processes with craftsmanship and technical expertise – so that good decisions become an overwhelming success.
